

► Tired of being bitten?

You won't mind the bite of this blackfly. Black Fly Cooler is made in London at Ontario's only micro-distillery using wild blueberries, cranberries and vodka. Much less sweet than typical coolers, it's made by people who really understand cottaging; it's packaged in unbreakable plastic bottles so there's no glass down at the dock, the bottles are larger than average and the bottle mouth is wide enough to put in small ice cubes. $10.95 for four at the liquor store

